Another Stanbery Opinion.

He Doubts the Constitutionality of the Last Session of Congress.

Report on Impeachment.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15, 1867.

ANOTHER "OPINION" FROM STANBERY—UNCONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE LAST SESSION OF CONGRESS.

Attorney General Stanbery is out with an opinion—presumed to be unofficial, as it appears as a communication in a newspaper, instead of being addressed to the President—on the additional session of the Fortieth Congress. After quoting the provisions of the Constitution for the meeting of Congress, the article says:

The act of January 22d, 1867, does not change or interfere with the day of meeting fixed by the Constitution, and all sessions of the Fortieth Congress held prior to the First Monday of December, except such as are merely conventional by the President, are irregular. It is true, the term for which members are elected Senators or Representatives begins and is dated from the 4th of March, but that does not affect the time fixed for the regular annual session to begin. A new Congress cannot meet, under the constitutional provision, before the first Monday in December, unless convened only by the President on an extraordinary occasion demanding it, of which he is to be the judge. The Constitution does not any where in any way provide for any other than the regular session of Congress. It does not authorize Congress to provide for an additional meeting, but simply gives it power to change the day for such regular meeting from the first Monday of December by appointing a different day. There is a first and second session of each Congress, and the meeting of a new Congress, commencing before the time fixed by the Constitution for it to assemble in regular legislative session, cannot be legalized by calling it an additional session or additional meeting.

The Attorney General goes on to say: The Thirty-ninth Congress had no power to pass the act of 22d January, 1867, otherwise it had power not only to convene an extra session, but to create an extraordinary session, which is in contravention of the powers of the President.

The article concludes as follows: The present meeting of Congress is not an additional meeting for a regular session. The session of March 4th, 1867, as has been shown, was not a regular session. It was a new and extraordinary meeting, created by act of January 22d, 1867, in addition to the present regular session of meeting of Congress, as designed by the Constitution. The act expressly so designates it. How additional? Not as an additional regular meeting of the Thirty-ninth Congress, for that Congress expired on the 4th of March, 1867. Was it "additional" to any regular meeting of the Fortieth Congress, for the Fortieth Congress has yet held no such regular session. It is not even pretended, by the session of March 4th, 1867, and the present meeting constitutes an extraordinary session of the Fortieth Congress, created and convened by act of January 22d, 1867. The time will arise for a review of its acts and proceedings, and he (the Attorney General) would suggest while now acting under these provisions of that act, if not in law, to pause and consider its very questionable constitutionality, and comprehend the proceeding he is about to take, before it can change the time fixed by the constitution for the regular meeting of Congress by appointing a different day therefor than the first Monday of December in every year.

It is learned the arguments contained in this opinion were substantially set forth by Attorney General Stanbery in the Cabinet meeting, when the subject of sending the President's message and documents to Congress was under consideration.

REPORT ON IMPEACHMENT.

Representatives Williams, Boutwell and Lawrence, of the Judiciary Committee, have severally written out their views in favor of the impeachment of the President. The probability is these will be harmonized to form one report.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH

—Mount Vesuvius, on the east side of the Bay of Naples, (Italy) is in volcanic action, and sending forth a pillar of fire, which has a magnificent effect as seen from the city. New craters have been formed and the usual point of issue is in latitude forty degrees and forty-nine minutes north and longitude fourteen degrees and twenty-six minutes. During the past few nights red hot stones were ejected in large quantities from the burning mountain. The surrounding earth is in tremulous motion for a considerable distance. Lava is pouring forth and running down the sides of the mountain in two streams, a rapid flow, and the general upheaving from the volcano gives warning of a grand eruption.

—On the 7th a terrible hurricane devastated the southern portion of the island of Porto Rico, one of the West Indies. Two hundred lives were lost and four thousand families rendered destitute. Provisions were to be landed free of duty for two months. Tortola, a small island—containing forty-eight square miles—was submerged by the flood, which followed the wind storm, and ten thousand lives are reported to have been lost. The loss to the steamship company at St. Thomas —also occasioned by the hurricane—will reach over a millions of dollars.

—The Secretary of State has referred to the Attorney General a new question, arising under the Emancipation Amendment to the Constitution. It appears that a British Captain brought three negroes into Key West, Fla., and that the local authorities indicted him under the laws of the State prohibiting emigration of free negroes. The Captain laid the case before Mr. Ford, British Charge d'Affairs, who addressed a note to Mr. Seward on the subject.

—It appears the Atlantic Cable company, under the new tariff regulations, make no extra charge for messages in the code consisting of plain words, but message in cipher, that is to say, messages in numerals or letters of the alphabet now being, any known or dictionary words, or names of places, ships, persons, &c., are to be charged for the first ten cipher words only, from five dollars, and for each additional cipher or letter two dollars and fifty cents.

—In the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis, yesterday, William G. Herold was fined one thousand dollars and costs for fixing false brands to manufactured tobacco, and Martin Windreck and Fred Suebring were fined twelve hundred dollars and costs for distilling without paying special tax.

—The Conservative Republican General Committee of New York City have taken steps towards the formation of a Grant club. A resolution declaring it inexpedient to make any nomination for Mayor was laid on the table.

—The indications are that parties who have invested in the presentation enterprise of Clark, Webster & Co., of New York, are victims of one of the sharpest speculations of the age. Over a million dollars worth of tickets have been sold.

—The Government lost during the past year upwards of one hundred millions of dollars by the non-collection of whisky tax. The loss on tobacco is estimated at twenty-five millions. The losses are attributed mainly to the corruption and mismanagement of collectors.

—A New York Herald "special" reports Chief Justice Chase in favor of such modification of the Radical programme as will preclude negroes from holding office, but demands universal suffrage.

—The Internal Revenue Department announces that Tice meters will be attached to the Western distilleries in about three weeks. They are already in operation in New York.

—Governor Pierpoint, Governor of Virginia, is not a candidate for re-election.

—The new Medical College for women, at New York, opens December 15th.

MEETING OF PARLIAMENT—SPEECH OF THE KING OF PRUSSIA.

BERLIN, November 15.—The Third Parliament of the Confederation of North Germany assembled to-day. The session was opened by the King of Prussia, who, after congratulating the members generally on seeing them again assembled, addressed a cordial welcome to the deputies from those provinces which were now represented for the first time. The attention of the members was called to the work of legislation before them, and the various bills which would be submitted to their consideration were referred to in detail. In alluding to foreign affairs, the King declared the relation of the Confederation with the other nations of Europe were entirely satisfactory. The foreign powers all appreciated and respected the pacific aims of Prussia. In regard to the progress of German unity, he said the conflict with the two States of South Germany, now allied with Prussia, was no longer to be feared, and in settling the question of future relations of the South German States with the Confederation, the Prussian Government would studiously endeavor to reconcile the views of their Catholic subjects with the internal and international interests of the whole Fatherland. The King concluded his speech with a declaration that the preservation of peace in Europe was now certain.

—The Italian Consul has sent to the British Consulate (at Constantinople) a young English sailor, brought to Constantinople on board the Italian bark San Ciriaco, of Ancona, which had picked him up at sea under singular circumstances, recalling one of the half-romantic half-humorous incidents in Captain Marryatt's novels. On the afternoon of Friday, September 6, the bark, while some ten miles from shore off Cape Degat, on the coast of Spain, hearing repeated cries for help a long way off to windward hauled the ship to, lowered a boat and sent it in the direction from which the voice seemed to come, and about half a mile off the boat fell in with a man with his head only above water, who turned out to be a young English sailor named William Blank, a native of Salcombe. It appears that Blank was a hand on board the ship Ocean Bride, bound for Newcastle, from Agostere in Greece, that he had been dissatisfied with the treatment he received, and that a fellow sailor, a Frenchman, who shared his dissatisfaction, persuaded him, when the ship was off the Spanish coast, to jump overboard and swim ashore—first buoying themselves with corks. Accordingly, at nine o'clock on Thursday night, September 5, they carried their adventurous plan into execution. The Frenchman was a good swimmer, but Blank could not swim at all, and was merely supported by his cork. The Frenchman swam ahead, towing Blank with a line toward the shore for about a mile, when he pretended to be seized with cramp, and cast off the line—leaving poor Blank to battle unaided with the waves for eighteen hours, till picked up by the Italian bark on the following afternoon, so exhausted that he had to be hoisted on board. Several vessels had passed him unnoticed, till his voice from the deep reached the ears of Captain Bellioni, who treated him with the greatest kindness all the way to Constantinople. The master of the Sarah Watson, bound for Sunderland, being in the Consulate for the purpose of procuring a hand while Blank was finishing his adventure, overlooked the breach of discipline, and deeming the Salcombe man a plucky fellow, shipped him at once for the voyage to England. Levant Herald.

—About a month ago a stranger stepped into the First National Bank of Iowa City, Wilta, a bag of what purported to be gold dust worth fourteen thousand dollars, representing that he had just come from Montana, and had more gold where he wanted. With the most incredible gullibility, the cashier snapped up the gold, and without even applying the usual chemical tests, gave him ten thousand dollars in gold and a certificate of deposit for four thousand dollars for the dust. The metal was sent to the mint in Philadelphia, and has just been returned with the interesting information that it is a composition of platina and copper, with a very small amount of pure gold. Of course the speculative "miner" has left.

—A woman tried to hang herself by a rope attached to a fence, in Hartford, a few days ago, and who subsequently sought to end her life in a cell at the station house, has made several desperate efforts to kill herself while in jail last week. Everything which came in her way, and offered the slightest assistance to her mania, has been seized upon, so that a careful watch over her has been necessary. One night she secured from a cell adjoining her own a blade of an old case knife, and with it cut her throat to the windpipe, making a gash deep enough to contain three fingers. Her condition is such that she was removed to the hospital.

—The financier who keeps the Prussian Treasury in so excellent a condition that the burdens of last year's war were hardly felt by the people, is another Secretary named Delbruck. The Minister of finance, Von der Heyt, amounts to but very little, but as the King is very partial to him, he has to be retained in office.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Attempted Escape from the Penitentiary by Fifteen of the Prisoners—The Plot Frustrated by the Vigilance of the Officers.

By the vigilance and efficiency of the Warden and attendants at the Western Penitentiary, a plan entered into by fifteen desperate men, inmates of the institution, to effect their escape, has been detected and foiled.

Monday evening, shortly after seven o'clock, at which time the prison doors are closed for the night, the watchman on duty heard an unusual noise in the building, and after some two hours' careful listening, he became satisfied that it proceeded from the upper tier of cells, on the right hand side, and at the extreme lower end of the center block; also that the noise was caused by the inmates attempting to work through the walls of the cells. He immediately informed the Warden, who, after satisfying himself of the correctness of the watchman's suspicions, summoned the attendants of the institution, entered the cells at the point designated and transferred the occupants to the dungeon. Upon examination it was discovered that there had been preconcerted action among ten of the prisoners to effect their escape. The plan adopted by them was perfectly feasible, and might have been successful had they been a little more guarded in their operations. Ten in the scheme occupied adjoining cells, and the arrangement was for one of them to work a hole through the wall into the corridor, and for the others to work through the partitions of their cells, by which they would be enabled to reach the cell the opening in which led to the corridor. When this was accomplished they were to congregate in that cell, and, after the watchman had passed on his regular round, quietly emerge through the opening, overpower him, and effect their escape into the yard and over the wall. The work had progressed so far when they were interrupted that only one hole was found through the wall on the outside intervened between the first cell and the corridor. Several of them had worked entirely through the partitions of their cells, but were not detected, would have completed the job inside of an hour. The walls referred to are of brick, that separating the cells from the corridor being twenty inches in thickness, while the partition walls are but fifteen inches. The parties engaged in the plot were employed at shoemaking, and in connection with the work, the most formidable of which was the last hook, the mortar was taken out from between the bricks, which were then easily removed.

The plan, it is supposed, was imparted to those engaged in it through the heating pipe, as that is the only means they had of communicating with each other. It was discovered, and for the morning that five others, in another part of the same block, were included in the plot, but it appears they did not thoroughly understand it, as there was no systematic action among them. Some were working one way and some another. Among this number was the convict recently convicted of larceny, in Washington, in May last, and sentenced for eight years. He had managed to cut a hole through the flagging in the corner of his cell, large enough to allow his body to pass through, but he evidently did not know anything about the building, as his work could only have led to an impenetrable gullibility, the cashier snapped up the gold, and without even applying the usual chemical tests, gave him ten thousand dollars in gold and a certificate of deposit for four thousand dollars for the dust. The metal was sent to the mint in Philadelphia, and has just been returned with the interesting information that it is a composition of platina and copper, with a very small amount of pure gold. THE COURTS.

Supreme Court Proceedings.

Court met at the usual hour Friday morning, Judges Thompson, Reed, Strong and Agnew on the bench.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad Company vs. Speer; C. P. Argument conducted by Purviance and Lucas for defendant in error, and by Schoyer contra.

John T. McCombs, Esq., of Allegheny county, was, on motion of S. A. Purviance, Esq., duly admitted and qualified to practice in this court.

United States District Court.

In this Court, Judge McCandless presiding, the case of James C. Smith vs. Daniel Hantz, which was taken up on Monday last, is still in progress. It is an action in ejectment for certain lands in Clearfield county, valued $60,000, and will not be concluded for some days yet. Messrs. Miles Foster and McAnnally appear for the plaintiff, and Messrs Swope and Purviance for defendant.

Common Pleas—Judge Mellon.

This Court met at the usual hour yesterday, but transacted no business. The jurors were discharged until Monday.

New Banking House.

It will be remembered that some two years ago a number of active and judicious citizens organized an institution of savings, called the "Keystone Savings Bank," the stock of which was to be made up by weekly payments until each share should represent one hundred dollars of the capital. The process has gone on regularly, the members having each and all punctually complied with the rule and the entire capital has been paid up. An imposing edifice, one of the best in the city, and admirably situated for banking purposes, has been erected at No. 256 Liberty street, a situation than which few could be more eligible. The banking room in this building is thoroughly furnished, and on Monday next the incipient bank of two years will open its doors and commence business with ample capital for an extensive business and for the complete security of depositors, will occupy it, prepared to do a general banking business. They will have a general correspondence with solvent banks and bankers in nearly all the states of the Union, enabling them to make remittances to any point from every important commercial centre. The bank will also deal in Government Securities, pay interest on Deposits, and do for its friends and patrons all that is usually done by a first class banking institution. Mr. James Robb, the well known Shoe Merchant of Market street, will be from the beginning has presided over the affairs of this bank, will continue in that capacity. In this community he deservedly possesses in a larger degree the confidence of our men of business. Mr. G. T. Van Doren, for several years past the popular Cashier of the Citizens' National Bank in this city, has been transferred to the same office in the Keystone Savings Bank. A more accomplished, judicious and obliging gentleman for this important and responsible situation could not have been selected. With a location so eligible, rooms so ample, and officers so capable and popular, this Bank cannot fail to prove both a successful enterprise and a useful public institution.

The May Queen.

In our last edition we failed to notice the brilliant success of the cantata of the May Queen, which was rendered with so much effect the evening previous at Masonic Hall. There was in attendance a large and fashionable audience, and everybody was delighted with the musical feast afforded. We do not wish to appear invidious, especially where all the performers acquitted themselves so handsomely, but the personations and realizations of Miss Hattie Jones should not be permitted to go without a word of praise or encouragement. Her voice is of the purest quality, and is evidently well cultivated. Modest and graceful on the stage, and having full control of her rich voice, Miss Jones is destined to be a great favorite with our concert goers, and is recognized amongst the very first of our amateur vocalists. Mr. Morehead was not unmindful of the merits of our amateur vocalists, and highly complimented the soprano by mention. She has a sweet voice, finely cultivated and renders her vocalization with power and effect. The other performers fulfilled themselves with much credit, and we trust the universal desire for a repetition of the concert will be acceded to, so that an opportunity may be afforded those who failed to attend on Thursday evening to participate with their presence in one of the most pleasing musical concerts of the season. Mr. W. M. Digby deserves great credit for the splendid manner in which the cantata was rendered, as the concert was under his direction.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Miss Julia Dean continues to draw large audiences at the Opera House. She has always been a favorite here, and will continue to be, we presume, as long as she remains on the boards. She will appear this evening in "Rob Roy," which by the way is one of her favorite pieces. "Colleen Bawn" is announced for the matinee this afternoon. Monday evening is set apart for the benefit of the sufferers by the late boiler explosion.

MASONIC HALL.—The Crescent Minstrel Troupe give an entertainment at Masonic Hall this evening, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the relief of the sufferers by the late boiler explosion. The object is certainly a praiseworthy one, and should meet with a hearty approval from the people.

MORRIS BROTHER'S MINSTRELS.—The celebrated Morris Brothers' Minstrels, from Boston, will give the first of a series of entertainments at Masonic Hall, Monday night. This is said to be one of the best troupes extant, and doubtless they will have a profitable season here.

TRIMBLE'S VARIETIES.—The celebrated specialty delineator, Wm. Henson, and Miss Lucy Clifton, the pretty danseuse, are the attractions at the Varieties. The sensation drama, "Pittsburgh in 1867," is on the bills for to-night, and it will doubtless be found in this city. The judgment and taste of this firm are attested by the quality, variety and style of their goods, and as there is no better cutter than Mr. Jones, the senior member of the firm, the patrons of the house may rely upon fashionable cuts and perfect fits. We commend the firm to our readers as worthy of encouragement.

Money Lost.—A lady yesterday lost the sum of one hundred dollars, wrapped in a piece of paper, either on Fifth or St. Clair street, Pittsburgh, or in the Manchester car, or on Federal street, Allegheny. A liberal reward will be paid for it if left at this (GAZETTE) office.

Correction.—In the Mortuary Report of Dr. McCandless, of the Board of Health, published yesterday—the number of deaths reported as for the week ah uld have read as "for the two weeks, ending the 10th inst." A difference quite interesting to nervous people.

Address of Welcome.—At a meeting of the Episcopal clergy of Pittsburgh and vicinity, on the 14th instant, Rev. Dr. Page was elected to deliver an address of welcome to Bishop Kerfoot, on his return from the Grand Council at Lambeth.

Young Woman, named Catherine Kelly, was before Alderman Thomas, of the Eighth ward, yesterday, charged by John Dunn with abandoning her infant child. In default of bail she was committed to jail.

A Youth of twelve or thirteen years, named James Talbert, was committed to jail, yesterday, by Mayor Barker, of Sewickley, charged by John Jackson with stealing thirty-five dollars.

The Grain Elevator, at the junction of Liberty, Grant, Canal and Washington streets, it is stated, has been purchased by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The Carpenter Shop of Messrs. Barker & Co., Webster street, Allegheny, was robbed on Thursday night of a set of planes.

PHILADELPHIA.

Rev. Newman Hall, D.D., of London—His Lectures.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14, 1867.

A quiet and pleasant sensation was caused in this community by the preaching and lecturing of Rev. Newman Hall, D. D., of London, the ardent and eloquent friend of America, during the war of the rebellion. On Sunday last he preached in the First Presbyterian Church, on Washington Square (Albert Barnes') to as many people as could get sitting or standing room. His subject was "the Brotherhood of Christ"—He is not ashamed to call them Brethren" and most admirably and most masterly did he delineate the character of Christ as our brother. It was one of those portraitures which affect the heart and abide in the memory. On Monday evening he lectured in Horticultural Hall, to a very full house, on the Relations between Great Britain and the United States. It was one of the most interesting discourses I ever heard. His object was to heal the wounds given by England to America, to palliate where he could not vindicate, to soothe and assuage the brilliant passage, with much of earnest argument, many touching instances of the devotion of our friends there, found principally among the working men, and finally, very many, some polished sarcasm and chaste humor. He spoke extemporaneously, only having the heads of his discourse on a piece of white paper, which he occasionally glanced.

On Tuesday at eleven he preached at the Baptist Church, corner of Arch and Broad, and in the evening at the Church of the Messiah, Broad street, near the corner of Fifteenth and Chestnut. On Sunday, I ought to have said, he preached four times. He is now off at Princeton, New York and Albany, and will return here to deliver another lecture on Saturday evening.

I sought and obtained an interview with him by request, to induce him if possible to visit Pittsburgh. He said it would give him much pleasure to do so, but at his time is already engaged. He visits Baltimore, Washington and Richmond, and returns home on the first of December.

Complaints of dullness of business are universal, and few, either of merchants or manufacturers, are making much money. The number of new buildings projected this spring is very large, and very few "To Lets" are to be seen.

—Indiana has a singular tree which has been examined by several gentlemen of acknowledged scientific attainments, who were not able to discover a similar place in our northern flora. The tree somewhat resembles the catalpa, and the leaves in many instances grow to an extraordinary size, some of them measuring forty inches in diameter. One twig had the flowers of the coming year rolled up in little russet, woolly balls. The anthers seem to be fully developed. This arrangement is the same, it will be remembered, as in the case of the witch hazel and the willow, which blossom admirably a-tray, which by some means has got out of its latitude. It would seem from its luxurious foliage and prolific stems to belong in more tropical regions.

—A fatal accident cast a gloom over the last day spent by the French Court at Biarritz. On Monday, the 28th, the Emperor's couriers, named Vaudin, was washed off the rocks by a wave, the sea running high at the time. Several persons were witnesses of the misfortune. One of them launched a boat, and, although running great danger, succeeded in bringing the body to the shore. Three medical men at once set to work to restore life, but once resorted to means for restoring life. The event was soon known at the Villa Eugenie, and drew a great concourse of persons to the beach. The Empress was the first. She not only encouraged the physicians, but assisted for twenty minutes in the endeavors to resuscitate the drowned man.

—The people of the Southern States are recommended to turn their attention to the culture of the olive. That tree, it is said, will thrive anywhere from the southern boundary of Virginia to the Gulf of Mexico. It is easily propagated as the willow, and should be set out in limbs two or three inches in diameter. These will bear in three years; but if limbs of this size be planted it will take fifteen years to do so. In five years the former will yield a full crop. The tree bears biennially. It can be pruned and trimmed freely, and when planted, it requires little attention, and has a source of great revenue in Southern Europe.

Special Sale of Trimmings, Notions and Hosiery at W. W Moorehead's, No 81 Market Street.

Taking advantage of the recent depression in the eastern markets, Mr. W. W. Moorehead, proprietor of the well and favorably known retail trimming and notion establishment, No. 81 Market street, early made his selection of goods suitable for the season, and is now offering to his patrons rare good bargains. His stock has been purchased with much care, as Mr. Moorehead's long experience in this particular line of business enables him to determine just what is wanted by our city trade. It embraces all the latest novelties to be found in the first class importing houses in the metropolitan cities, and every article will prove highly suitable to the trade. In the contracted space at our disposal it would be folly to attempt an enumeration of the various articles stowed away in his cases, shelves and counters, for there will be found an endless variety of trimmings, buttons, laces, hosiery, corsets, hoop skirts, real and imitation laces, lacesets, handkerchiefs of lace and linen, rich point laces, edgings, insertings, full lines of embroideries, white goods of endless variety, kid gloves, novel jewelry, ribbons of every hue and description, and, in short, the thousands of articles so familiar to our wives and daughters. But while selecting for the ladies, Mr. Moorhead was not unmindful of the requirements of the gentlemen, as a splendid full line of dress shirts, under garments, collars, cuffs, scarfs, neck ties, suspenders, half hose, &c., &c., will be found from which to make selection. In order to close out the large stock on hand, Mr. Moorhead recently announced a reduction of ten per cent. for cash on his already reasonable prices, and since then his store has been thronged daily with purchasers desirous of taking advantage of the opportunities afforded for securing the choicest bargains ever offered so long held such high position we feel that it is useless to commend it to public patronage, but we bespeak for Mr. Moorhead much success during the period of his continuance of his special sale.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1867.

THE CASE of Senator Humphrey, charged with demanding and accepting bribes, in the performance of his official duties, is before the Grand Jury at Albany. Some of the witnesses refused to testify, the laws shielding them from criminating themselves. That does not look as if the charges against the Senator were instigated by political malice, as has been alleged by his friends; but the look is that the laws ought to be altered so that witnesses can be made to testify without being exposed to criminal prosecutions.

A SCHISM AMONG THE CHIVALRY.

For many years before the war Mr. HENRY A. WISE made a considerable figure in the politics of the country. Always violent, frothy, abusive, truculent, his oratory was of the description to captivate the illiterate and brutal. In consequence of his peculiar qualities, he did more than many southern men of higher capacities and character in sowing discord between the two sections and in bringing on the rebellion. When the war broke out, he entered the Confederate military service, and in some quarters large expectations were entertained that his career would be brilliant. The event proved that the aptitudes which make a caustic vituperator, are not those which produce a great captain. As a General he proved a complete failure.

After the close of the rebellion Mr. E. A. POLLARD took upon himself the task of furnishing a contribution to contemporaneous history. This is always a labor of delicacy; often of difficulty. Historic characters are seldom estimated during the stir and bustle of events in which they participate, as they are when the passions of the moment die out and an impartial judgment is formed of their powers and performances. Mr. POLLARD's undertaking was peculiarly difficult. Some of his heroes had acquired a fictitious reputation from the incapacity of the loyal leaders they had confronted and overthrown, or had attained a kind of colossal grandeur by the very ruin they had wrought. Others had been unfortunately circumstanced so as not to afford them fair scope for their abilities. All of them were yet enveloped in the smoke of the contest, making it a hard matter to discriminate the actual from the fallacious.

Of course Mr. POLLARD had to depict General WISE. Perhaps his portraiture of him was more accurate than of any other individual. At all events, it accorded with the general judgment of the rebel as well as the loyal element of the nation, and this is not small praise. A copy of the book was sent by the publisher to Mr. WISE, accompanied by a letter asking him to make such suggestions for a revised edition as he should deem just and proper. He read the book, and his vanity was wounded. No wonder. It is not pleasant for a man to be proved all that most men dispise, and to have no prospect that the case can be changed by any additional evidence which it is possible to adduce.

Mr. WISE resounded, not in the way the publisher suggested, but after his own fashion, in a rasping letter to a newspaper. If there is any satisfaction in verbal abuse of an opponent, he had it; for his production is a master piece of blackguardism. The only drawback, so far, was the consideration that the book might live and influence, less or more, the opinion of posterity, while the letter would be pretty sure to be forgotten.

Mr. POLLARD felt the cudgelling he received, and, not content to rest upon his advantages, he resolved to pay Mr. WISE in kind. So he wrote a letter and rushed it into the columns of a newspaper. He accomplished all he had intended, by surpassing his enemy in the use of his own weapons. He managed to surpass Mr. WISE in extravagant invective, and at the same time to edge his coarseness with a superior literary finish.

Mr. WISE was overcome. Historic arguments failed him and he was vanquished in the game of throwing dirt. Nothing remained that he could do, except to resort to the barbarism of the duel or the ruffianism of assassination. He chose the latter, and this he attempted by proxy. Perhaps this is as suitable an ending of his public course as could well be devised.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The Anniversary Meetings of the Evangelical Societies of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in Philadelphia, some days since, have been seasons of much interest to that Church, and the religious part of the community generally. The twentieth anniversary of the Evangelical Knowledge Society was celebrated in the Church of the Epiphany. Addresses were made by Bishop Eastburn and Rev. Mr. Fales, and other interesting services took place. From the report, read by Dr. Dyer, Secretary, we learn the receipts of the Society during the year were $45,506 08. The property of the Society, including the legacy fund, amounts to $73,201 58. The number of publications issued by the Society is 628, more than usual. The grants amount to over fourteen thousand dollars. In the evening of the same day on which the Anniversary took place, the annual sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. S. Cooke, of New York. The business meeting of the American Church Missionary Society, on the afternoon of the next day after the Anniversary of the Knowledge Society, was preceded by the administration of the Holy Communion, Bishop Stevens presiding, assisted by Bishops McIlvaine, Johns, Lee, and Eastburn and Dr. Stone, followed with addresses by Bishops McIlvaine and Johns, in place of a sermon. The report shows the gross receipts for the year amounted to $82,000, an excess over last year of $32,333. During the year the Society has had fifty-nine missionaries employed, an increase of thirteen over last year. In the evening the Anniversary was held, Judge Conyinghan, of Luzerne, presiding. Bishop Eastburn delivered an address of much power. The Educational Society, next day, held a meeting for business, followed in the evening with a social re-union at Horticultural Hall.

The Methodist Episcopal Church at Ravenna, Ohio, is enjoying considerable prosperity, and indications are apparent of a gracious revival of religion. At the close of the quarterly love feast last week, or experience meeting, several persons were received into the Church on probation of six months, preliminary to full membership. Among the number was Hon. Luther Day, Chief Justice of the State of Ohio. Revival intelligence is beginning to be received by the Pittsburgh Adocoate from different parts of Ohio, as well as in this part of the State.

A Convention has just been held in Aurora, Illinois, over which Rev. Dr. Burchard, President of Wheaton College, presided, having representatives from several States in the Union, and several denominations of the Church, to consider the pernicious effects of secret societies. Resolutions were adopted, after a long discussion, declaring that "the secret Orders now spreading in the country are, in their nature and structure, hostile to the religion of Christ." It is proposed to hold a national convention on a grand scale, to consider the same subject, next May.

The General Missionary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at their annual meeting, last week, in New York, made appropriations to the foreign and domestic mission work for 1868, of that Church, to the amount of eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Rev. R. H. Rust, a member of the senior class of Union Theological Seminary, New York, has accepted the call to the Chaplaincy of the Young Men's Christian Association of Brooklyn, with a membership of about forty-five hundred. While assuming the duties of his responsible position, he will also continue his studies at the Seminary, and graduate with his class in May next.

Nine New York merchants have subscribed $10,000 each toward the building fund of the Young Men's Christian Association of that city. Already the total subscription has reached $210,827.

The endowment fund of Westminster College, under the Presidency of Dr. R. A. Browne, has received a fresh impetus since his election to that position. An effort is now making to sell scholarships enough to found four professorships, to be named respectively the "Kerr," "Bruce," "Bullions," and "Pressly" Professorships, in honor of four venerated ministers.

The United Presbyterian Church is disturbed somewhat on the question of secret societies, at least the subject frequently forms a part of Presbyterial action. In dealing with this delicate question, this body will arouse some feeling in its communion. Its action in regard to Good Templars, while regarding its organization as a good one, the means employed to reach the end in view are not approved.

It appears from the report of the Baptist Home Mission Society, for the past year, that three hundred and sixty-seven missionaries have been employed by the Society, who have baptized over seven thousand converts. In the freedman schools under its direction there are over six thousand pupils. Full three hundred colored ministers and men have received instruction in the schools.

The Holy (Episcopal) Trinity steeple in Brooklyn, has reached a height of two hundred and thirty-two feet. When completed it will be as tall as Trinity spire on Broadway, New York, and will occupy higher ground than that of New York Trinity. The cost of the spire, with some repairs to the church, will be about sixty thousand dollars.

Two hundred years ago a Unitarian church was established in Philadelphia. To-day there is but one Unitarian church, with no prospect of ever having another. The Presbyterian expresses praise to God at the fact.

A band of triplet children circumcised in the Jewish synagogue at San Francisco, some weeks since, were named Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to which names those of Lincoln, Conness and Andrew Johnson were added.

Recently Rev. Mr. Salt, an Episcopal clergyman, in Western New York, joined the Catholic Church, on the ground of dissatisfaction with the Articles; the slovenly services in many churches, the opposition to Ritualistic advance; and the manifesto of the Bishops.

Rev. Dr. Mattison, of New Jersey, in a lecture on the decline of Catholicism, asserts that the Catholics admit that during the twelve years, from 1840 to 1852, 1,900,000 were lost to that Church by those who come into this country. The statistics in the Catholic Almanac and by other publications of that Church, indicate differently, an increase instead of a declension. Speaking of the churches he alleges that in this entire Union there are 2,442 Catholic churches to 54,000 Protestant, or 1 to 22. The Episcopalians have nearly or as many as the Catholics; the Congregationalists have 2,230 churches; the Presbyterians have nearly twice as many: the Baptists have 11,210, or 4½ to 1; the Methodist Episcopal Church has 19,816, or 8 to 1 of the Catholics.

The Advance, the new Congregational paper recently started at Chicago, announces that fifty thousand dollars of capital stock has been secured for its publication. This will give back-bone in the form of material aid, in this new venture of independent religious journalism. This paper indicates careful preparation and editorial ability, in its well filled columns, and is a fine specimen of mechanical execution throughout.

The Central Congregational Church in Boston, one of the most beautiful in the "Hub," and one of the most beautiful in the world, has just been dedicated. Its cost is nearly three hundred thousand dollars. This edifice is well worthy of a visit from every lover of superb and sacred architecture. During a late visit we visited the church, when the last touches of frescoing and other work was being done in the inside, and such a sight we never beheld in all our wanderings in the different cities of the Union. The frescoe work appears equally as fine as the rich decorations of the ceilings and walls in the new Capitol extension at Washington city.

The American Board of Foreign Missions has appropriated five hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars for the work of 1868. The Board want fully sixty new missionaries, and they talk of needing one hundred and fifty soon. The enlargement of the Mission work of this Society will doubtless stimulate other Societies of a simular character, to increased activity. The various favorable openings in foreign lands for mission labor should be occupied by missionaries, and the Churches should furnish means without stint, to carry forward these aggressive movements.

STATE NEWS.

—The first execution in Clearfield county took place on the 13th inst. Lena Miller was hung for having poisoned her husband in July, 1866. On the scaffold she, through the attendant minister, confessed her guilt. A very limited number of persons was allowed in the jail yard.

—The Somerset Herald and Whig says: A destructive fire occurred at Meyer's Mill in this county, on Wednesday evening, the 6th inst., whereby Skinner's foundry was entirely consumed. The employees were all at supper about six o'clock in the evening, when the flames burst forth. Nothing was saved except a new building adjoining the foundry, which had just been erected.

—Information is wanted of a boy about twelve years of age, rather slender of his years, with black eyes, dark hair, and had on a suit of very dark gray, home made flannel, and a low crowned black hat, stiff brim, and calf-skin high shoes. He left the home of his parents in Salem township, Westmoreland county, on the 21st of October, and is supposed to have made his way towards Pittsburgh. His distressed parents will thankfully receive any information of him address d to A. M. Wolf, Salem X Roads, Pa.

—The Shamokin Herald says: On Monday morning last John Hancock, employed in the mines of the Excelsior Coal Company, sustained painful injuries from the premature discharge of a blast. While tamping the powder, it became ignited and flashed out upon him, badly burning his face, breast and arms. Although very severe, his injuries are not thought to be fatal, and hopes are entertained of his speedy recovery.

—The Wilkesbarre Union narrates the following thrilling incident: During the demonstration on Friday evening, two men had ascended to the top of the clock tower of the Court House with a basket of Roman candles and other pyrotecnics, for the purpose of setting them off. Sparks from a Roman candle ignited the pieces in the basket and in a moment the men were enveloped in a mass of seething, hissing and bursting fireworks. The basket rested on the trap door, and no alternative was left but to fight the fire for possession of the door, except a leap of nearly two hundred feet to the ground. The firemen were soon in the belfry, and by forcing up the trap door and the application of a few buckets of water, succeeded in extinguishing the flames and rescuing the men on the tower. One of them was severely burned, and but for his companion, it is said would have leaped from the steeple. The wood work on the top of the tower was slightly scorched, but sustained no material damage.

—The Wilkesbarre Record of the Times says: A destructive fire occurred in Hyde Park on the morning of November 6th, which destroyed several buildings and contents. The fire originated in Wm. Josephs' saloon adjoining the cooperative store, on the east side of Main street, The building in which the fire originated was quickly consumed, and the fire communicated successively to Steller's bakery, a building occupied by R. Jones as a saloon, a building owned by H. B. Powell, and occupied as a butcher shop and dwelling, and two buildings owned by the Bemis estate. Three small tenements next to these were pulled down by the Hook and Ladder company to stop the progress of the fire, which they succeeded in doing at this point. The space burned over has a front of 320 feet. The loss is estimated at from $30,000 to $40,000. Insurance $23,000.

—Neal Deaveney, who murdered his wife in Hazelton, Luzerne county, on the 24th of last July, was hung in Wilkesbarre, Tuesday, Nov. 12. He stoutly denied his guilt until just as the rope was adjusted, when he confessed. He was but thirty-one years old. The Wilkesbarre people made a great show of the execution; the jail yard was crowded and the throng around it was dense. The militia turned out and paraded, and altogether the occasion was enjoyed very much by the spectators. In fact the whole affair seems to have been almost as publicly barbarous as if it had taken place in England or Delaware.

—The following we clip from the Doylestown Democrat: A respectable widow by the name of Hester Albertson, aged seventy years, was found lying dead in the door way of her house in Morrisville, on last Tuesday morning, with her throat cut. She had arisen during the night, and committed the fearful deed with a butcher knife, completely severing the jugular vein. She has for a number of years been very infirm; so as to be able to repose only by sitting upright in her chair, and the supposition is that, tired of the painful life of constant hoarseness, recent cough, bloody spitting, influenza, or any inclement lung disease. The fame of DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL CHERRY SYRUP is now as well known in boundaries of our State, and in many cases has gone far beyond these limits.

Of the one hundred and sixty thousand computed citizens of Pittsburgh, not one can afford affliction who we doomed to lead, she in desperation terminated her existence in the bloody manner stated. About two o'clock in the morning her daughter came down stairs, and at that time the old lady was sitting in her chair as usual, but at sunrise she was seen by a passer by lying with her head and one arm projecting from the open street door, in a pool of blood, quite dead, with her throat cut from ear to ear. Two large butcher knives covered with blood were found lying by her side. She had evidently found one of the knives too dull to accomplish her purpose, and the bloody marks of her hands were seen where she had fumbled for the second one.

—Saturday afternoon last, as five young men from the First ward, Allentown, were were out gunning, and while on the mountains near that place, a wag of a barefaced character, it appears that the men had given chase to a rabbit, which then lodged in a rail heap. Four of the men were engaged in driving the rabbit out, while the fifth, named Ward, had the gun ready to shoot at a moment's notice. As soon as the rabbit was dislodged from his hiding place, Ward fired, and as he did so, George Morgan, who was stooping at the time, raised himself, the entire charge entering the back of his (Morgan's) head, and passing through the same driving one of his eyes out, killing him almost instantly. The rest of the young men picked up the lifeless body of their companion and carried it to the house of the mother of deceased.—Allentown News.

—The Allentown News says: We are again called upon to record one of those heart-rending cases which so frequently occur in this neighborhood. On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Ann Louisa Shaffer, wife of George Shaffer, being tired of life, committed suicide by taking a dose of arsenic (three drachms) in a cup of coffee. Mrs. S. was a lady much respected by the community in which she resided, and had it not been for a difficulty between her children and other children in the vicinity in which they reside, there is no doubt this terrible self-murder would not have presented itself for record.

—Thompson, the murderer of young McDonald, of Johnstown, Pa., has not yet been arrested. He is hiding in the mountains west of town, and has sent in a defiance for the people to come and arrest him. A party of some twenty went to hunt him yesterday, with what result has not been learned. The Sheriff offers $200 reward and Mr. McDonald $50 reward for his capture.

—The mystery which surrounded the last execution of cable dispatches is satisfactorily cleared up. The agent of the Associated Press had no races to report. The supply from New Market and Doylestown suddenly gave out, and he naturally concluded that it was a good time to "go a-fishing." The Liverpool races have now begun, and America throbs with agitation at knowing that Mandrake was the winner on the first day. People who complain at the prevalence of racing dispatches must remember that it is to their importance that they are indebted for all the other valuable news which they receive by cable. But for Mandrake they would not know to-day that "the jury in Costello's case have disagreed," or even that "Mr. Butler has declined being Bishop of Natal," or yet that "the Yellow Book is announced as ready for publication."—Evening Bulletin.

—Abbott's life of Napoleon III., in compiling which the memorable meeting took place, will soon be ready for the press.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.
BY JOHN W. GEARY, GOVERNOR.

From the creation of the world, in all ages and climes, it has been customary to set apart certain days for special religious observance. This has not always been influenced by the light of Christian knowledge, nor by any proper conception of the character of that Great Being who ruleth the earth in righteousness," "who ruleth the earth in righteousness," and "who daily loadeth with his benefits," but by an innate sense of the existence of an over-ruling Power, by which the world and all it contains are governed and controlled. Aided by the dictates of cultivated reason, and the teachings of Divine revelation, we, however, are taught to recognize in that Supreme Ruler a Heavenly Father, to whom we are indebted for existence and all the blessings we enjoy, and to whom we owe constant and fervent thanksgiving and praise. It is He who "visiteth the earth and watereth it;" who "setteth the furrows and blesseth the springings thereof;" who crowneth the year with his goodness, and whose paths drop fatness;" who "clothest the pastures with flocks, and coverest the valleys with corn; who maketh the out-goings of the morning and the evening to rejoice;" who is "our refuge and strength;" who "giveth rain from heaven and fruitful seasons filling our hearts with food and gladness." All the people are therefore invited to come and hear.

In the house of God on that day, which is higher than I." Those overwhelmed by the late disaster at the Fort Pitt Iron Mills are especially to come and be pointed to the Rock from which the waters of consolation flow.

The McCoy murder trial is attracting a great deal of attention in Steubenville. McCoy, it will be remembered, is accused of shooting a man named McDonald, at Shanghai Station, on the 6th of April last. The State closed its evidence on Thursday afternoon, and the defence opened. The prosecution occupied, with their evidence, three days and a half, and a large number of witnesses were examined. As yet we know nothing of the line of defense, which will be taken, as it seems clear enough that McCoy shot McDonald.

One night last week, Albany was the scene of a startling crime, almost amounting to murder; a man was set upon by a villainous desperado and beaten with a bludgeon until life was almost extinct, and then robbed of all he had about him that was valuable. A lonely place was chosen for the scene of this drama, but there was a witness, and the perpetrator has been arrested. Woman, lovely woman, was at the bottom of it all, and jealousy was the instigating passion. A former lover of a frail girl was the victim, and a later one the criminal, who took the watch and five hundred dollars in money mately to avert suspicion from himself.

We mentioned in yesterday's paper the casting and further maltreating of an editor in Troy. We find now that the Albany and Troy press is unanimous in the praise of the caner and in scorn of the editor, who has been in the habit of publishing impertinent personalities concerning young gentlemen and ladies of that city. The gentleman who plied the switch with such effect this time, is the brother of a young lady whose name had been improperly used. We have already stated and we repeat that we think that a private individual's name is his own property and whoever uses it without permission or good cause is guilty of breaking the eighth commandment.

LITERARY GOSSIP.

—Henry Ward Beecher has been impressed with the wisdom of the merry and wise Boston Doctor, and has gone to Canada for awhile in hopes of getting a copyright for his novel, as the Doctor is said to have done. His sister, Mrs. Stowe, is living away down South in Dixie, writing a novel beneath the blooming orange trees of Florida. Perhaps it will be a little softer, kindlier and less Pilgrim-Fatherish than previous efforts.

—The Brooklyn Eagle has a comic contributor with the Roman Celtic name of Cory O'Lenus, who is about to have a new book of his sayings published, by Carleton, of course, for he has published every funny book from John Phœnix's time down. Comic literature is becoming more voluminous, and even our staid old sister, Cincinnati, is trying to get up and support a comic journal all by herself. May success attend her efforts.

—The beautiful romance of "Almost Lost," which originally appeared in the Leader of this city, is being re-published the Buffalo Gazette with fine illustrations. It is from the pen of Bartley T. Campbell, Esq., of this city.

—David Paul Brown is writing a history of the Philadelphia Bar. Before and since the passage of the Sunday liquor law.

—Vathek has been re-translated into German. The old translation has been very popular for years.

—Mrs. Therese Yelverton gave her first reading in New York on Monday.

—Dr. Bellows is in Montreal after a copy right.

—Reverdy Johnson is going blind.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, November 15, 1867.

The decline of United States bonds in London from 70½ to 70¾, called a temporary rise in gold here; upward at 140¾, advancing to 141, but suddenly declining to 140¾ market dull and drooping. Speculators for a rise are exceedingly careful, and a yielding or a rise of about one per cent. either way is deemed sufficient margin to make a trade. The bull element is gaining strength, but operators for a decline are too numerous yet to allow the market to advance materially, in the absence of any definite information in regard to the disposition question. The currency redemption of gold bonds has nearly spent its force, and should gold decline to anything under 139, it is likely to reach a much lower mark than before.

Bonds were strong early in the day, but became weak and dull at noon; closing heavy. All the force of Wall street is now spent on stocks, of which New York Central, Erie, Fort Wayne, common, and preferred, Cleveland, Michigan Southern, the Express stocks, old or new, are all in demand at the advance. Fort Wayne (at 19 per cent.) stock is close, staying behind, and selling 2 per cent below par. North Western, common, is nicely engineered for a corner; slippers that handled it last year and put up the price to 61, is holding it now, and is likely to realize a handsome bonus.

Closing New York quotations, received by Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows:

Gold, 140¾; 1881's, 112¾; 5-20's, 1862, 108; 1864, 106¾; Coupons, 107¾; 10-40s, 104¼; 7-30, 105¾.

—The New York Tribune, of Thursday, contains the following:

At the meeting of Congress approaches, its action upon financial questions is discussed with great interest. All parties are agreed that a policy should be adopted which, while it will restore the drooping confidence of the community, and especially of capitalists, who now hesitate to make long or expensive investments in any direction. The financial policy is the subject upon which the people of the State of New York most desires to be informed by legislators. The chief point of interest is, whether the policy of contraction of the currency is to be pursued and specie payments forced, without regard to the trading and debtor part of the community, or whether the surplus revenue shall be devoted to the retirement of the interest bearing debt, which, by this process, it is argued, would stand higher in the market and make its permanent funding at a large saving of annual interest a necessary task. It is argued by the best authority among the entire community, that nothing but a temporary suspension of the contraction of the 44 millions per month would restore confidence and make active once more the diversified business of the country from which revenue is derived. While the policy of the conversation of leading members and merchants, is to point with all the force at their command, in correspondence with Congress with earnestness, and the operations of the Treasury, if possible, be confined to the payment of the interest on the debt with the surplus revenue, leaving the legal tenders at the present amount.

The permanent funding of the National debt will claim the early attention of Congress. The present organization of the 10 to 40 bonds and their growing popularity make it evident that the time has arrived when a long five per cent. loan can be issued, and the rate of five per cents can be funded, as fast they come within the power of the Government for payment. The political horizon is clear, and the future is approaching, and state of early resignation, it will be best to at once place enough five per cent. long bonds to enable the country to fund in the issue of 1862 for payment, or exchange for the new 5-20's, if it is preferred. The value of the premium on gold is caused by the unsettled state of political affairs, and it will disappear as to political restrictions, and will be of no impediment to the permanent funding of the debt. The idea that the existing premium is wholly the act of a score of capitalists is refuted by a comparison of the premium on gold at various times with the amount of Treasury tenders, and those classes of public debt which when issued, performed the office of currency and were so counted.

Amount of Legal Tender and other Short Debt outstanding for Legal Tender counted as Currency, and the price of Gold.

With a decrease of what at its issue was exclusively a real tender of $323,277,105, the premium on gold is not a measure of value. Nor is it likely to be by contraction of legal tender not demanded by legitimate business. Judging from the tone of Congressmen, who echo the wishes of their constituents, no changes will be made in financial legislation which will affect, materially, if at all, decrease the present currency.

—The Chicago Tribune of Thursday, says: The dissatisfactions reported in money for demand for money to day, but there was no improvement in the general business. The packers were checking freely in payment for purchases of hogs, and several grain shippers put in applications for accommodation on short time bills. The market is running comfortably easy for all legitimate business, and operators find it rather close, though not so stringent as a week or ten days since.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, November 15, 1867.

CRUDE—The market was again weak and unsettled to day, and while there was a fair volume of business in the aggregate, prices have still further declined. We quote regular sale of 100 bbls each, for March and April, 1868, seller's option, at 8½ 1500 for all 1867, seller's option, at 8½; and 8000 to be delivered On first or second water, at 8½. There is nothing doing in spot oil, and while there is little in store, there is not much in sight, and the stock is almost exhausted, there is but little here to offer. We quote nominally in the absence of sales, at 10@10½c for round lots in tank, according to location, and 9@9½c in barrels, barrels to be returned.

REFINED—There is no improvement to note in the general tone of the market for bonded oil; indeed, if anything, the market was even worse than it was yesterday, and prices have still further declined. We can report sales of 1,000 bbls each for January and December, at 24½c. 23½ for November, at 25½; 5-0 do for the; and—on Thursday—200 bbls 300 for 60th month in 1868, at 26½c. Jobbing is extended ending with December, at 27c. The worst feature about the trade is the hopelessness for any thing like that unless the market improves within the next sixty days, some of the better speculators, who have bought heavily some weeks since for this month at 26½ and 27c, and for December at 24 and 25c, will be forced to the wall, as but few can carry on as they are, or will be able to stand up under such a loss. It is to be hoped however, that these apprehensions will not be realized.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, November 15, 1867.

There is really nothing that is new or important to be said about the general markets. While there is no improvement to note in the demand for any of the leading commodities, and the transactions are mainly of a retail character, prices have undergone no change worthy of special notice.

GRAIN—Wheat is quiet but steady, and with limited receipts, prices are maintained; we continue to quote at $2.35@2.60 for prime Red, and $2.70@2.75 for White. Barley is in rather better demand and firmer; we can report sales in store to-day at $1.35. Corn is in good supply and exceedingly dull but unchanged—85@90c for new, and $1.15@1.18 for old. IMPORTS BY RAILROAD.

PITTSBURGH, COLUMBUS & CINCINNATI R. R. November 15.—4 pkgs tobacco, 3 A Oglesby; 100 bbls flour, owner; 24 bbls barytes, Fahnestock, Son & Co; 41 sks pearlash, Lea & Gazzam; 25 tons grease, Jas Dalzell & Co; 80 hides, G N Hoffstott; 34 pkgs tobacco, Head & Metzger; 4 hides, Pope & Hopkins; 2 do do, Wm Bell; 2 do do, Reuben Dawson and John Lee; 2 do do, Wm Bell; inspectors, have been superseded by Elias Stutz and Gregg Hoffstott. Inspector Alexander has laid up. Business rather brisk. The Tempest gobs to White river to-morrow afternoon. The Star left for Henderson.

From the New Orleans papers of Saturday, we learn that the Jimplesuite, a new boat, built at Shreveport, and on her first trip, sunk on Friday, November 1st, at Belcher's Sinks, 15 miles below Shreveport. She was bound for New Orleans with a load of stock. A number cattle and seven lives were lost. The boat will prove a total loss. She was owned by Captain Joe Green and Mr. John Handy, her clerk.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Wednesday, says: The Jennie Scott is making her last trip in the Chester trade. She will go to New Orleans with the hull of the W. H. Osborn in tow. Her owners, yesterday, secured for the Osborn 1000 tons freight at such rates as caused considerable comment on 'Change and in boating circles. The Peter Balen takes the place of the Scott in the Chester trade, with the crew of the latter, and will leave to-morrow.

St. Louis, November 13.—The steamer Armada struck a bank last night on Upper Island, and is disabled badly. The river deadline continues to recruit whatever is attained by any of the St. Louis and upper river packets. Competition continues between the old and new Keokuk packets, and great promise to be intensified next spring. It is the most successful dose ever administered to the old line. The Oldtime and the Keokuk No. 2 are running neck and neck. The hull of the steamer Osborne will be towed to New Orleans by the steamer Jennie Scott, leaving yesterday. The Peter Balen takes the Scott's place in the Chester trade. The Deer Lodge, from Fort Bernold, reports that the Imperial got off from her grounding at Dauphin's Rapids, and was on her way down the river, full of half starved passengers. The Deer Lodge left Stanton sixty miles below Fort Stevenson. She reported the Yellow Stone floating with ice. The Missouri is in a very bad condition everywhere.

A Memphis telegram, under date of Wednesday, says: The Grenada Republic arrived at 9 o'clock this afternoon, and leaves to-morrow at three o'clock. She will ply between the Memphis and New Orleans trade, leaving here alternate Saturdays.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, of Thursday, says: In anticipation of low water the Memphis Packet Company are looking out for lighter boats to take the place of their packet steamers. It is probable that the J. McCullough, on her return from the present trip, will go into the small line, for which steamers and united States have to be laid up again.

The Importer, Capt. Noss, arrived from Pittsburgh, Harmar and Marietta, reporting down, and it was lightened up and sent to the docks yesterday. The Importer was forty hours coming from Parkersburgh to St. Louis a five p. m. to-day.

The Fleet Wood Cash, Captain Bryant, arrived from Pittsburgh yesterday. The boat was bought there by parties here, and will be used for towing at this port.

The Portsmouth Republican, of Saturday, says: The Pioneer, the name of the new propeller just built at Buena Vista, has been on the ship-builder, will receive her machinery here, and finish her next week. She is intended for conveying cotton, &c., along the Forked Deer River, in West Tennessee, for which purpose she is well adapted, her power, and much cotton of a superior quality is grown along its banks."

The St. Louis Democrat, of Thursday, says: The Board of Underwriters of this city, yesterday met to consult on the subject of risks taken by barges and boats in tow. The rate of risk of damage and loss is small on barges in tow of steamers, and nearly all the business of towing barges to and from New Orleans is with barges and cargoes in tow of passenger boats, themselves valuable property, and exposed to numerous inadinas on the way, are much more liable to loss and damage, then when taken to their destination. The Board had a full statement of the question, nor are the boatmen put in possession of the facts to the desires of action of the underwriters on the subject, and believed that they had decided to "take no risks on outside towing." Boatmen generally were going to insure "only on the M. V. T. Co's barges and those towed by the Atlantic Line boats," but others had heard of it; so one could tell what it was.
